Newport, R. L. Oct. 15 (special).—A pretty wedding took place at 12:30 a. m. today at the Havemeyer villa, the bride being Miss Elauche, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore A. Havemeyer, and the bridegroom W. Furler Duncan, jr., owner of the cutter-yacht Huron and a member of a prominent New-York and London family. It would have been a much larger and more elaborate wedding but for the fact that the families of both bride and bridegroom are in mourning, the grandiather of Miss Havemeyer being dead only a few months. The music was excellent, the breakfast all that epicurean taste could suggest, and the gowns, lewels, flowers and presents were superb. Lander, of New-York, brought his orchestra here, and Mr. Toul- he said: min, the harpist, of New-York, accompanied Mr. Wilson, who played upon the organ. There were no ushers or bridesmalds. The duties of best man were performed by Alexander Duncan, cousin of the bridegroom. The bride's dress came from Worth's, and was of white silk embroidered with bouquets of seed pearls and trimmed with rare lace. Upon her head was a coronet of orange blossoms, and her long tulle veil was caught back by small diamond pins. In her hand she carried a bouquet of lilles of the valley and a prayer-book. The couple stood in front of an improvised sitar and beneath a floral bower. A gilded table covered with white flowers and a certly crucifix formed the altar. The ceremony was performed by Father seeks, of New Yor., a life long friend of the family, and the Rev. Dr. Philip Grace, of St. Mary's Church, of this way. As either side of the altar were two impense torches richly gided and bearing aloft numerous lighted candles. The present from the father to his faughter was a costly house and a fortune in cash, while her mother gave her the wedding trousseau and lines. The bridegroom's present was a diamond star and a siver dressing-case. SHERMAN, MCKINLEY AND FORAKER SPEAK AT DAYTON.

ROAST OX AND REPUBLICAN ELOQUENCE FOR THE PEOPLE-THOUSANDS DEFY THE IN-CLEMENT WEATHER TO HEAR THE > SPEAKERS-ON FAMOUS PO-LITICAL GROUND.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.]

Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 15 .- It is not often, even in Ohio, favored as that State always is with the best political oratory available in the country, that three such public speakers as Senator Sherman, Major McKinley and ex-Governor Foraker meet on the same platform and address the people of a single county. Montgomery County, o which this city is the county seat, has been the only one so honored in this campaign, and although both county and city are Democratic, the gathering to-day was a complete vindication of the wisdom of bringing together the three foremost party leaders in the State at this sitigle point. The Republicans of the county have been stimulated to the greatest activity by the meeting, and a determined fight will be made to overcome the usual Democratic majority of 1,000 or more on the State ticket, and also to elect one or more members of the Legislature. The total vote in the county is large, reaching between 20,000 and 30,000, and there is a chance here for decided gains on the tariff issue, a chance which the earnestness and enthusiasm of to-day's raily have done much to brighten.

The meeting, as usual, in Ohio towns, whether large or small, was held out-doors and had to contend with a raw, wintry day, a threatening sky and a high and penetrating northwest wind, All the conditions were adverse to open-air speaking, yet the crowd about the stand stood through six hours of speechmaking and was larger and more demonstrative at the end than at the beginning Not more than 3,000 or 4,000 people could get within ear-shot of the orators, and the actual audience was maintained all day at this figure, but the crowd within the county fair grounds where the meeting was conducted reached from 8,000 to 10,000, and there was a constant stream of arrivals and departures, so that in all perhaps 15,000 people took part in the great demonstra tion and saw or heard something of either Senator Sherman, Major McKinley or ex-Governor Foraker The Dayton fair grounds are said to be the mosattractive in appearance in all Ohio, and they have been long used for political gatherings. Henry Clay spoke to a great Whig meeting here in 1842, from a platform erected only a few yards distant from that used to-day. The ground here rises in a gentle slope and from a central point at the foot of the incline shapes itself into a natural amphitheatre. No seats are made and the listeners stand close together so that from the platform one sees only a compact level of heads. and shoulders. It is the effect out of doors which, except for the head coverings, one gets in an indoor meeting place like Faneuil Hall.

The arrangements for the day were under the general charge of Major Bickham, the veteran Editor of "The Dayton Journal." programme was divided into two parts-a morning speech at 11 o'clock, by Senator Sherman, and then, after a breath for luncheon two afternoon addresses by Major McKinley and ex-Governor Foraker. The luncheon was itself a striking feature of the day's enjoyment. Several oxen and half a dozen sheep were roasted over open fires in barbecue fashion, and the crowd was fed with strips of beef and mutton cut fresh from the earensses. Four Kentucky experts were also brought over to prepare a sort of broth called burgoo," which is prepared from meat and vegetables and strongly seasoned with pepper and Kentucky whiskey. This "burgoo" served in tin cups which were for sale about the grounds for a cent each, a practical refutation of the free-trade assertion that since the McKinley tariff the price of tin plate and tin utensils has gone up. From 5,000 to 10,000 people enjoyed this generous luncheon, and in spite of the inclemency of the weather made a picnic of it under the trees. The speech-making was, of course, of high quality and great popular interest. Senator Sherman had the platform alone in lock look place at St. George's Church to-day. Bishop | the morning and made a strong and effective speech on all the issues of the campaign, both State and National. His voice held out easily against the wind and the rawness of the air, and he talked for fully two hours and a quarter.

The Senator's plain, often homely and always erisp and vigorous, discussion of the tariff and silver questions held the attention of the big audience from start to finish, and no more effective | presentation of the cardinal doctrines of the Republican platform could have been desired. Major publican platform could have been desired. Major McKinley was present on the platform, and turning toward him at the close of his argument in defence of the McKinley bill, Mr. Sherman said forcibly: "I will say for the bill what perhaps my friend Major McKinley will not say—that it is the most comprehensive, the finest and the most beneficent piece of tariff legislation that this regulate, has ever thown." Senator Sherman also country has ever known." Senator Sherman all spoke emphatically on the State issues involve spoke emphatically on the State issues involved in the canvass—the partisan gerrymander, and the Democratic plot to capture two-thirds of Ohio's electoral vote next year by forcing electors to be chosen by Congress districts. He urged the people to elect a Kepublican Legislature and save the Senatorship now in peril, and he attacked the State programme of the Democratic party as bitterly as he had denounced its National policy.

At the conclusion of his speech, which was received throughout with great cuthusiasm, the crowd scattered for luncheon, and it did not reassemble about the speakers' stand until 2 p. m. Major McKinley was seen introduced and direct cheering. He looked thusiasm, the crowd scattered for lancheon, and it did not reassemble about the speakers' stand until 2 p. m. Major McKinley was tien introduced amid great cheering. He looked worn atter his night's ride from Ravenna, and was not in his best voice when he began. He warmed up after twenty minutes' talk, however, and made a strong and convincing speech of an hour, confining himself chiefly to the tariff question.

Ex-Governor Foraker came last and discussed State issues chiefly. He was heartly applianted and listened to wide great interest and attention. It were the meeting broke was nearly 4 o'clock when the meeting brok up, and it was declared on all sides to have bee the greatest and most successful ever held in th up, and it was decared on the greatest and most successful ever held in the Miami Valley. During the morning there had been a highly interesting parade and display of Dayton's large manufacturing industries.

From Dayton, accompanied by the Fairfield Club of Hamilton, Major McKinley man down to that flourishing city this evening and made a speech to his opponent's neighbors. Butter County, of which Hamilton is the county seat, is the strongest Democratic County in the State except Holmes, but the Major had a warm reception from the Republicans there and left behind him a highly favorable impression. To-morrow be will speak at Foon, Prelie County, in the afternoon, and at Springfield, Clarke County, in the evening.

MR. SHERMAN ON THE OHIO CAMPAIGN. HE THINKS THE ELECTION OF M'RENLEY AS SURED AND THAT THE LEGISLATURE

WILL BE REPUBLICAN. Dayton, Ohlo, Oct. 15 (Special), Scunter Sherman spent a few hours here this afternoon after his speech at the great Republican meeting on the fair grounds, and talked freely to those who called on him of his experiences so far in the campaign, and his general view of the pultical situation. When asked what the people of the State seemed to think of the issues this rear, as they had been discussed by the party leaders,

"I find the people of Ohlo in the main opposed to the Democratic demand for the free coinage of silver. I have not hesitated to denounce most openly and aggressively the delusions of unlimited colonge and the other financial heresies associated with it. That the people of the State are unfriendly as a whole to music hall here of the kind of the London Empire and the people of the state are unfriendly as a whole to any scheme of inflation is shown conclusively. I think, by the unwillingness of the Democratic lenders to discuss and defend the silver plank of their platform. I think, too, that Ohlo is a protectionist State, and that the policy of protection will be sustained here. The Mckinley tariff has proved its benefits to the people, and it will undoubtedly command a mafority in this State on a fair and open trial, such as it will have at the coming election, such as it will have at the coming election. such as it will have at the coming election. On these two National issues Major McKinley ought cratic friends have assured me that they oppose free colnage and will vote against ft, but I cannot be cortain that they will go to the trouble of helping to elect the Republican Legislative candidates in the districts in which they live. On the Legislative contests, the personal popularity of candidates often has more to do with the result than the political issue involved. Indirectly, local causes are often strong enough to determine the vote of a Legislative district, although on a direct contest on a National Issue the vote would be just the reverse. There is a large number of very se countles in Ohio, between ten and twenty, wh representatives depend on just such accidents. The People's Party movement was for a time a disturbing uence, but it has fallen flat and will not greatly affect the election of the Legislature. It will probably injure one party as much or as little as another. The ballot system may also have a certain effect the vote in close districts, but it, of course, will as much of a disadvantage to one side as the other. look for a Republican majority in both branches the Lectslature, however, and I think that major is likely to be as large as twenty on joint ballot.

A CONFIDENCE GAME IN OHIO. DEMOCRATS PICK UP A BOGUS M'KINLEY TO" DO' THE STATE WITH CAMPBELL.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 15 (Special).-The State campaign on the part of the Democrats has already deteriorated into a confidence game. The Democrats have found a man somewhere by the name of Mc-Kinley, H. C. McKinley, and this gentleman is now doing" the State in company with the Governor. Campbell has been a poor drawing card this year, and his meetings have not been noted as ordinarily fair. on the other hand, Major McKinley has attracted the people by the ten thousands, and held his audiences to the close. The Democrats recognized the fact that comething must be done to attract the people to the Governor's meetings, and McKinley, H. C.,

rought to Ohio. Flaming posters as large as a barn-door are now posted about the country, reading:

Campbell and McKinley; another joint debate between

Campbell and McKinley; another joint debate between the two great leaders." This deception promises to succeed very well until the fraud is discovered, and the people tearn just what means the Democrats have to resort to in order to attract a large number to listen to the Democratic candidate for Governor.

Calvin s. Brice arrived in Columbus early this morning and has been in close conference with Chairman Neal the greater part of the day and night. Mr. Brice did not put in an appearance one moment too soon, as the funds of the committee are said to be low and business requiring immediate cash has been staved off for the last ten days. Some of the clerks are kicking because of the passing of pay-day to a more convenient season. The information given out is to the effect that contributions from the Democratic statesmen of the country have been parsimonious, and that virtually nothing save $5.000, contributed by the Democratic National Chairman, and $5,000 mised in New-York, has passed over to the committee. The Democratic oliceholders in the State are credited with contributions, or rather assessments, in the sum of $7,500. It is understood that other amounts have been subscribed, but cannot be used for the benefit of the State tichet, but wholly for the purpose of electing legislative candidates.

TWO OF THE COMING SPEAKERS ON HAND. COLONEL MILLS AND JUDGE CRISP IN WASHING-TON-CERTAIN OF VICTORY ALL AROUND.

Washington, Oct. 15 (Special).-Two of the Speakers of the incoming House of Representatives are in town. They are Messrs. Mills and Crisp. Each of them and all his friends seem to feel that there is no doubt of his election if he lives to see the first Monday in December. This feeling appears to be justified. The partisans of Colonel Mills say: "Of course he will be lected; he has carned the honor, and it would be the basest ingratitude to confer it upon anybody else; he has borne the heat and burden of the day in the truggle for tariff reform. That is the great issue, and Mills is its great apostle; he has invaded every Northern State east of the Missouri River and has prenched the gospel of revenue tariff in nearly every ongress District in a I those States. He is a veteral legislator, and Cleveland is his friend. His own State backs him loyally; a uniority of the Southern Democrais are his enthusiastic supporters; he is the first and ast choice of a majority of the Democratic Representatives from the North, who will begin their first term of service in Congress next December. He is courageous and fearless. Why, of course, Mills will

Could anything be more clear and conclusive! And yet the friends of the Georgian say, with equal em-phasis and confidence: "There is not a shadow of toubt that Judge Crisp will preside as Speaker of the House of Representatives of the LHd Congress. is the ablest parliamentarian who will sit in that body: he is young and is strong in health, as the Speaker will seed to be. He is as courageous and fearless as any man, and at the same time he possesses in the highest degree alertness, coolness and wariness-qualities which are must necessary as well as desirable and which are lacking in some of his competitors. Crisp is as earnest and thorough in his devotion to the cardinal principles of his party-especially to tariff re em and free and unlimited silver colunge-as Colonel Mills or any other man. He is modest and does not blow his own horn or prate of his exploits and services as some other men are inclined to do, but his record of achievement is not less conspicuous and deserving than theirs. Three-fourths of the Democrats who Southern Democrats are solid for him to a man, either us first or second choice; he has formed pleasant per sonal relations with more of the new members, and has received more personal pledges of support from them than has either of his competitors, and the Democratic cus will nominate him on the second bellot, if not cauchs will nominate him on the second pellot, if not on the first one."

Can any reasonable person doubt that Judge Crisp also will be Speaker? Colonel Mills is resting from his ardmons and noisy campaign in Ohlo, and at the same time is preparing for his second invasion of New-York and Massacanusetts. Judge Crisp is storing his magarine with ammunition to bring down Republicans in Ohlo and New-York. The farmers and workingmen generally of the Bay State and the Empire State should prepare to receive condelence from the Corsicana Cobsen, who will regale them with horrors more dreadful than any of which they ever dreamed; and the Republican voters of the Eucheye State—the small reminant which Colonel Mills left unconverted—should begin to prepare their hallots for Campbell, free trade and free silver.

MR. BLAINE LOOKING AND FEELING WELL.

Augusta, Me., Oct. 15 .- It is not definitely settled ion. If he continues to improve in health as rapidly as he has since he returned to his old home, he will probably leave here for Washington either the last of the month or during the first week in November.

Boston, Oct. 15.-Eugene Hale, Schator from Maine arrived in Boston from Ellsworth yesterday, and left here for New York last night. Mr. Hale was aske about Mr. Blaine's condition, and said that the Secre tary of State was looking and feeling remarkably well iary of State was looking and feeling remarkably well.

- You would hardly know him," he added, "for the same person that passed through Roston in June last, the eats well, sleeps we I, and his mind is as active and alert as ever. He passed some time with me at Ellsworth on his journey from Bar Harbor to Angusta, and his chief reason for going to his old home was that his house in the latter city was better adapted for an October residence than the lar Harbor cottage."

Referring to the reports of Tuesday that Mr. Blaine had been the victim of jamiyes, senator Hake observed that if true he thought a good many men might be largely benefit d by a similar shock. "No," said Mr. Hale, "it's all nonsense."

A BADGE FOR LITTLE MISS CLEVELAND.

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 15.-The Vanderbilt Benevo lent Association of Charleston has sent to ex-Presi dent Cleveland a handsome souvenir badge of the asso ciation for his little daughter Ruth. When the baby was born, the association passed a resolution of congratulation. The barge is of gold and of the finest workmanship. On the obverse it contains the monogram of the association and on the obverse the words "Ruth Cleveland, October 3, 1891."

NOTES OF THE STAGE.

The demand for scale for "The Rivals" at the law. Garden Theatre has been so great that it has been decided to give it at some of the performances of next week. Mr. Jefferson and Mr. Florence will accordingly be seen in this play on Thursday and Friday evenings and at a special matinee on Wednesday. "The Heir at Law" will be played for the rest of the week.

It has been finally determined that the Meininger company will play at the Thalia Theatre. The engagement is for four weeks, beginning on November 17, and four plays will be given for one week each. They are "Julius Caesar," "Mary Stuart," "Hermann's Hattle" and "The Witch." The company will afterward visit Chicago and San Francisco. The best seats at the Thalia Theatre for these performances will be sold at $3.

Ponrteenth-st. in front of the Wigwam blazed with the time for organizing the "grand Tammany Hall ratification and mass-meeting" to attract a large crowd of people who were entertained until the spraking by the dulcet strains of the 60th Regimen band. The Tammany managers thoroughly understand the secret of mustering big audiences, and they succeeded so well last night that they were able to start two overflow meetings and a gathering of alleged German Democrats in the basement of the building n addition to the "mass-meeting" proper in the main sail. Next to securing the crowd their greatest anxiety was to give it the appearance of un-Tammanylike respectability, so the annual call was made upon such respectable citizens as Robert B. Roosevelt, J. Edward Simmons, Recorder Smyth, John T. Agnew, Eugene Kelly and Edward V. Loew. But these well-known men found their names so sandwiched in among those of big brewers, which Secretary John B. McGoldrick sonorously read, that they must have felt themselves in strange company. They looked decidedly uneasy when most of the Sachenis, Sagamores, Wiskinkies and other Wigwam chiefs interested in making way with the city's "wampum," pushed themselves upon the platform beside them.

Robert B. Roosevelt, who for this occasion, probably out of regard for the feelings of the "gents" of the organization, did not appear in evening dress, was introduced by Sachem Feliner to preside, and he started in upon a carefully prepared speech, intended to be cutting and sarcastic whenever he referred to Mr. Fassett and the Republicans. "The Republican candidate for Governor," he remarked, "Is going over the State snouting 'Tammany! Tammany!' " "Three cheers for the tiger," yelled a highly excited man who had stationed himself near the stage to aid in keeping up the enthusiasm. The crowd responded with a series of wild hurrahs, after which Mr. Roosevelt was kind enough to say that he "had Irish blood in his veins," which was the signal for more hurrahing. But he pleased his hearers most when he deprecated the ular notion in favor of economy in nicipal expenditures. "I'd rather, if anything," he loudy declaimed, "see the expenses of the city of New-York increased." This sentiment so touched the hearts of Mr. Roosevelt's auditors that it was followed by a long-continued howl of delight.

United States Senator John E. Kenna, of West Virginia, was presented by the chairman as the orator of the evening. Mr. Kenna is a tall, pleasantfaced, smooth-shaven man who passes for the youngest member of the Senate. In general appearance he closely rescribles a clergyman, but that delusion speedily disappears with his stapid misrepresentations of the principles and record of his political adversaries. The senator devoted the most of his speech, which oc cupied more than an hour in delivery, to a dreary effort to prejudice the public against protection and the tariff legislation of last year. When he had exhausted himself on this subject he undertook an ar-raignment of the Free Elections bill, which he declared was not at all dead, but was crouching like a real tiger ready to spring upon the liberties of the people and tear them into fragments. At the mention of the tiger again the Tummany braves, who had been peace dozing while Mr. Kenna had been inveighing against wrongs which the country would have to suffer with the Republicans in complete power, roused themselves to violent applause.

W. Sourhe Cockran followed Senator Kenna and Launched at once into a bitter tirade against Mr. Fassett, whose effective campaign through the State against Tammany Hall it was plain that the mouthpiece and eloquent spokesman of the Tammany coterie was in no mood to forgive. Mr. Cockran became greatly worked up while he deluged his audience with long sentences in violent denunciation of Mr. Fassett's rough handling of Wigwam practices. "We do not fear discussion," he cried, "of National, State or municipal Issues. As Mr. Fassett says, "Turn on the light," Mr. Croker's henchmen frantically cheered at this, but in place of going into a discussion of any of these issues Mr. Cockran soon grew funny over Mr. Flower's cont-of arms, which he would have the piain people believe was quite an insignificant thing to drag into a politica was quite an insignificant thing to drag into a political campaign. Then Mr. Cockran foolishly tried to mix Mr. Fassett up with the "doing to death of Alonzo B. Cornell, whose administration he eulogized.

The heaviest "liess" which Mr. Cockran put in last night were against the "robbers and thieves over in Pennsylvania, who were now being pursued by a Democratic Governor." What this had to do with Mr. Fassett's pursuit of the Tammany tiger, and the irresponsible oligarchy which dominates the city of New-York and is seeking to extend its rule over the State and Nation, Mr. Cockran did not explain.

General Siciles was called for after Mr. Cockran ended and he spoke briefly. A harangue from Colonel Fellows came next, and Congressman McAdoo, of New-Jersey, and ex-Senator Thomas F. Grady also spoke.

Fellows came next, and Congressian across, of New York City.

MAYOR CHAPIN NAMED FOR CONGRESS. HE AND DAVID A. BOODY MAKING AN ATTEMPT

TO EXCHANGE OFFICES. Mayor Alfred C. Chaple was nominated by the Demscrats of the Hd Congress District of Kings County last evening as candidate for the place left variant by the resignation of Pavid A. Boody, the Democratic candidate for Mayor of Brooklyn. The nomination was made at a special convention of the delegates to the Democratic General Committee from the wards and towns in the district. It was presided over by Park Commissioner George V. Brower, and Thomas E. Pearsail presented the name of Mr. Chapin. It was no cepted by acciamation, and 250 names were signed to the certificate of nomination to be filed according to

Mr. Chaple did not appear to accept the nomination, and it is understood that he has not made up his mind whether to follow Mr. Boody's example and resign one office to run for another, or to emulate the example of Governor Hill, and try to hold two offices at once.

Alfred C. Chapin is about thirty-eight years old, and is a graduate of Williams College and a lawyer by pro-fession. He was atterney for Austin Corbin, of the Long Island Railrond Company, when he was elected member of Assembly in 1880 in the X1th Assembly District. He was re-elected in 1881, and was made speaker of the Assembly. In 1883 he was elected Speaker of the Assembly.

State Controller, and was re-elected in 1885. In 1887 he managed to secure his election as Mayor of Brooklyn by 500 plarally, and was re-elected in 1880. The district in which he will run for Congress has never been represented by a Republican, it being so apportioned as to have a large Democratic plarallty.

ENTHUSIASM IN THE IXTH DISTRICT.

One of the most enthusiastic district meetings that have been held since the opening of the campaign was the one last evening in the Bleecker Building under the auspices of the IXth Assembly District Republican Organization. A large parade of voters marched through Eleckerst., headed by a band, and were through Riecckerst., headed by a band, and were cheered and cheered again. The hall was claborately decorated and the stirring speeches which were made by the different speakers were applanded with warmth. William H. Corsa presided and made an eloquent speech in opening the meeting, in the course of which he asserted that if only the solid Republican vote could be got to the hallot-box on election day, as he fall textain.

it would, Tammany Hall would receive a lesson that twould do it good. L. Owen Miner, the secretary, read a long list of vice-presidents and secretaries. The of vice-presidents and secretaries. The entrance at this time of Lispenard Stewart was greeted with cheers. Messrs, Stewart, W. L. Reid, candidate for Alderman, and John P. Rockefeller, candidate for Assembly, also made_speeches.

TRYING TO OUST THEIR RECEIVER.

OREGON PACIFIC BONDHOLDERS GET WARM ON

THE SUBJECT OF MR. HOGG. About seventy boudholders of the Oregon Pacific Railroad Company met yesterday in a vacant room of the building of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company to discuss the prospect of reorganization. The meeting was decidedly warm as regards the criticism passed upon T. Egenton Hogg, receiver and president of the ompany. The expressions were unparliamentary to a decided degree, such an epithet as "thief" being used frequently as descriptive of the receiver. A rumor was spread late in Wall Street that Mr. Hogg had made an attempt to assault the venerable John I. Blair, of Blairstown, N. J., and was only prevented by the interposition of his nephew, James A. Blair, This story was squeiched when it was ascertained that Mr. Hogg was not present at the meeting. Young Mr. Blair emphatically decied that there had been any personal altereations at all and he was indignant that it should be supposed that there could be any among men of the character who composed the gathering. Mr. Blair admitted, however, that there had been warm discussion at times.

The outcome of the meeting was harmonious. The following committee was appointed to prepare a plan of reorganization and devise ways and means for protecting the bondholders: Alexander Brown, of Baltiore; Joseph Wharton, of Philadelphia; James A. Blair, of New-York; Linley Smith, of Philadelphia; George S. Coe, president of the American Exchange National Bank; George B. McKim, of Philadelphia, and R. G. Hazard, of Peace Dale, R. I. The vote was unanimous and represented $14,000,000 out of the $15,000,000 first movigage bonds issued. The committee will meet next week to organize, and will report a pian later to the bondholders. It is understood that an effort to oust Mr. Hogg will be made at an early date. Mr. Pogg was in the city a short time ago, but he is now on the way to Oregon to defend a suit of $100,000 brought by workmen on the road for claims unpaid. The bondholders are willingly to assume responsibility for these claims if the courts will effect a change in the receivership.

The Oregon Pacific has been in default on interest since October, 1890. It was projected from Yaquina Eay, Oregon, to Boise City, Idaho, a distance of 600 miles. It has been built for 140 miles. Since the default there has been a hot contest waged between the Hogg management and the bondholders. mortgage authorized the bonding of the road at the rate of $25,000 a mile, the bonds to be issued only as the road was completed according to the claims of the Blair faction. This would mean only $3,500,000 bonds outstanding on the completed 140 miles, whereas $15,000,000 have been The net receipts from the sale were about $12, 000,000, so that the present bonded indebtedness repoccoood, so that the present board indectedness represents some $80,000 per mile. The bondholders have at times accused Mr. Hogg and his friends of improperly profiting by the difference between the cost of the road and the actual issue of bonds. The Hogg faction dispute this interpretation of the mortgage and deny all charges of impropriety. It is declared, however by the Blair faction that the outcome of yesterday's meaning will be the removal of Mr. Hogg as reever by the Blair faction that the outcome of year day's meeting will be the removal of Mr. Hogg as ceiver.

MEN WHO HAVE FACED HUSTED AND LIVED.

To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: A statement which appears in your columns to day needs a little correction. Please accord me the opportunity. The statement is: "It has long been ald that, when the Democrats of the Hild Assembly District, Westchester County, N. Y., desire to kill politically a member of their faith, they name him to run against General Husted." The Hon, S. D. Horton by General Husted and was a elected Sheriff of Westchester County by a large majority, and he is the present Mayor of Peckskill; the Hoa. John Hoag was beaten by General Husted and afterward beat the General. Now he is the County afterward beat the General. Now he is the County Treasurer of Westelester County, having beaten a very popular Republican, the Hon. David Cromwell. No much "political" death there. I could name other cases, I predict that General Husted's present opponent. Supervisor W. R. Thorne, will be a very live political corpse during and after the approaching contest.

COVERED SEVEN TIMES OVER IN FRANCE ALONS -THE APPLICATIONS FROM OTHER LANDS. Paris, Oct. 15 .- The Russian loan, which it was yes terday announced had been negotiated by the Hoskiers, it now seems was covered seven times over in France alone. The applications from England figured up only £12,800 bonds; those from Russia, £218,000; from Holland, £5,400, and from Denmark, £6,000; The applicants were mainly capitalists, though there were many demands for single bonds from the French providees. The branches of the Credit-Foncier were not allowed to receive applications. The Credit-Foncier subscribed for £2,550,000 bonds; the langue de Paya Bas, £1,360,000; the Lyonnais Bask, £1,415,000; the Comptoir Nationale Escompte, £564,000, and other large banks, including Hoskiers, an average of £300,000 each. provinces.
